ast Will Suffer From Coal Strike

cite Miners' Strike Will Affect Territory East of Buffalo More Than Any Other Section—Present Stocks Will Last Until December.

Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—In the event of ike of anthracite miners Septem 1 the country east of Buffalo, N. will be the principal sufferer.

Chicago and the territory west of falo will feel it in a much lesser ree.

This was the statement made here ay by Andrew T. Murphy, publisher of the Black Diamond, a national l journal, in an exclusive interview given to International News.

In his opinion, Murphy said, a ike was inevitable and, he believes, e is little likelihood of the government interfering.

"The region east of Buffalo," Murphy said, "is the great consumer of anthracite. We here in the middle t gradually have been weaned y from its use, largely because of st and also because we learned r lesson during the last hard coal ike in 1902."

Prices will not be much of a factor the event of a strike, Murphy believes—that is, prices of anthracite l. He did not commit himself as the probably effect on prices of minous and other substitutes.

"Above ground at the present e," he explained, "are stocks of thracite sufficient to run until December 1 at least, and when these cks are depleted, there will be no y of replacing them.

"The only recourse for the consumer is to turn to natural substitutes for anthracite. The two principal substitutes are smokeless coal d coke—and oil, of course."

"Smokeless coal," Murphy explained, was a grade of west bituminous which was the nearest thing own to anthracite.

"Both smokeless coal and coke are roduced by non-union labor," he id, "so the supply is unaffected by bor agitation."

The "Jacksonville agreement" was ed by Murphy as the principal reason why he believed the government uld not interfere if the threatened rike becomes a reality.

"Secretary of Commerce Hoover uld be the man in charge of any tion to be taken by the government, d his unfortunate experience with e Jacksonville agreement has left m with no inclination to get mixed th another coal controversy between employers and employes," he d.

Murphy thinks should a strike me it will be long and bitterly ght.

Baby Leads to Reconciliation

Millionaire Banker Forgives Daughter Who Eloped With Superintendent of Chicken Farm After Chicken Coop Honeymoon.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Lenox, Mass., Aug. 14.—Across the marble halls of "Croton Place" today strode Greenville L. Winthrop, millionaire New York banker.

The man of wealth was smiling and happy for in his arms he carried a chubby, laughing baby boy.

The infant, cooing in his best bib and tucker, had played successfully the role of peace-maker, unconscious, no doubt of what he had accomplished.

But the once angry banker had forgiven his daughter Kate the moment he saw the baby boy—forgiven her for electrifying society a year ago by eloping with the village electrician, Darwin Morse.

Mother and son—whose name is Darwin Jr., came across the continent from Santa Barbara, California, to see "Grandpa" Winthrop.

Society here is now wondering whether Banker Winthrop will also forgive his older daughter, Emily, who eloped at the same time as did Kate, with Corey L. Mills, the Winthrop chauffeur. Emily and her husband are living in California.

The Morses will live in "Croton Place" until next month when they will move into the Plunkett house on Bartlett avenue which is being renovated and refurnished for them.

They will move in, it is said, on the day Mrs. Morse celebrates the first anniversary of her marriage to the handsome young electrician who made love to her in a chicken coop on the Winthrop estate where he was employed as superintendent of the chicken farm.

Coolidge Starts To Visit Father

President Plans Five Day Stay at Old Homestead in Vermont—Makes Trip by Automobile.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Swampscott, Mass. Aug. 14.—Rain was falling and skies were black as President and Mrs. Coolidge left the summer White House today to go by motor to Plymouth, Vermont for a five day visit to the president's father, Colonel John C. Coolidge.

The president chose the automobile route for the long journey despite the fact that a night of rain made the highway boulevards slippery and the country roads muddy.

A special train awaited the command of the president but despite the weather and the condition of the roads he decided on the motor.

There were several closed cars in the presidential calvacade.

In the party besides Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge were Colonel S. A. Cheney, military aide, Major James F. Coupal, the president's physician, and a delegation of Washington newspaper correspondents.

The route led across the northern section of Massachusetts, through New Hampshire, into Vermont and then up the steep approaches to the Green Mountains.

President and Mrs. Coolidge planned to stay in Vermont until Tuesday or Wednesday of next week. While in Vermont the president will be visited by Chairman Mellon and Senator Smoot of Utah, members of the American commission conferring with the Belgian war debt funding commission. Mellon and Smoot will acquaint President Coolidge with all facts in the discussions. The commission, it was pointed out, would come to no agreement which did not first have the sanction of the president.

Everett Saunders, secretary to the president and the force at the summer executive offices did not accompany the executive to Vermont.

Republicans Name Judge Stephan for Mayor

Also Recommend Dempsey for Renomination for Alderman-at-Large and Shufeldt for City Judge—Approve Suggestion of Salary for Mayor, Beginning With Stephan's Successor.

FREDERICK STEPHAN, JR.

For mayor, Frederick Stephan, Jr.

For alderman-at-large, Edgar J. Dempsey.

For judge of the city court, Augustus Shufeldt.

The Republican city convention unanimously selected the above ticket at the court house Thursday night for recommendation to the enrolled Republican voters of the city for nomination in the September primary election, and with great enthusiasm greeted each of the candidates as they accepted the nomination and promised if elected to devote their best efforts to the welfare of the city of Kingston.

The convention was called to ordder a few minutes after eight o'clock by Arthur H. Wicks, who was elected chairman when the convention organized Tuesday night. The roll was called by Secretary John W. Eckert, fifty-four of the sixty delegates being present.

Cashin Names Standard Bearer.

Judge Stephan was placed in nomination by Assistant United States District Attorney John M. Cashin, who said:

"We have met here tonight to select our standard bearer in the coming campaign, to designate for recommendation to the voters our candidate for the nomination for mayor, in fact to select the next mayor of the city of Kingston.

"In determining the fitness and qualifications of the mayor, we should remember that the mayor must be considered the same as the head of a big business establishment, and therefore he must have business ability, tact and sound judgment. He must properly handle the important business of the city and command the respect and esteem of all his fellow citizens.

"The candidate I have in mind carries all those qualications.

"He was honored by the electors of his ward for two terms as supervisor and served in that office four years, and to my personal knowledge he served faithfully and conscientiously and acted for the best interests of his constituents and for the entire city of Kingston and county of Ulster.

"He was honored by the electors of the city for two terms as city judge and he discharged the duties of that office with perfect fairness and entire satisfaction.

"He was honored by the electors of the county of Ulster and served one term as district attorney with marked fairness, ability and distinction.

"Needless for me to say, he performed all these duties faithfully and well.

"He is thoroughly qualified as a lawyer and I need not dwell on that subject.

Warms Hearts of Taxpayers.

"As a business man, you know how well he has served as legal adviser of the Homeseekers' Cooperative Savings and Loan Association and for thirty years has been the leading spirit in that organization, handling more than a million dollars—an organization that comes very close to the heart of the owner of every little home.

"He has the respect, the esteem and the confidence of each of us and of every man and woman in the city of Kingston and he will be elected if you, ladies and gentlemen, will get out and help.

"It gives me great pleasure to place in nomination Frederick Stephan, Jr."

There was an enthusiastic demonstration by delegates and spectators when Mr. Cashin finished speaking.

Stephan Unanimous Choice.

On motion of Charles Lahl, Jr., the secretary was instructed to cast the unanimous ballot of the convention for Judge Stephan, and Mrs Mary Murphy and Mr. Cashin were appointed to escort Judge Stephan from his delegate's seat before the convention. There was another enthusiastic demonstration when Judge Stephan faced his fellow delegates Promises Best in Him.

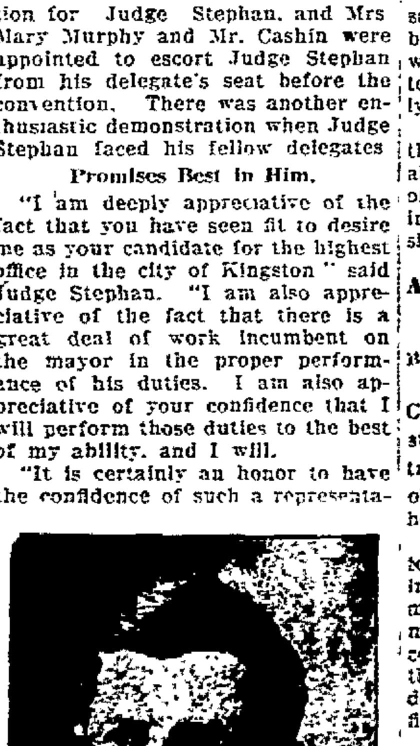
"I am deeply appreciative of the fact that you have seen fit to desire me as your candidate for the highest office in the city of Kingston" said Judge Stephan. "I am also appreciative of the fact that there is a great deal of work incumbent on the mayor in the proper performance of his duties. I am also appreciative of your confidence that I will perform those duties to the best of my ability, and I will.

"It is certainly an honor to have the confidence of such a representative body as this, but you must realize that it is necessary for me to have a majority of the votes cast in this city and that I must depend on you men and women to help me get them, placing the same confidence in you that you placed in me tonight.



AUGUSTUS SHUFELDT.

"We need the votes of every Republican, of a majority of the voters of the city, not only for myself, if I am to be your mayor but in addition we must all put our shoulders to the wheel for the election of every candidate on the Republican ticket.

"I will do the best I can to be elected, and if elected your mayor I will do the best I can to give an honest, straightforward and economic administration of city affairs. Taxation is a matter we must all

Smith Determines To Stop Pool

Albany Baseball Pool Has Become Alarming, Says Governor—Sheriffs Have Been Directed to Put a Stop to Pool.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Aug. 14.—Will Governor Smith be able to stop the Albany baseball pool?

This is one of the questions which Albanians are asking each other these days.

Twice the governor has written to sheriffs to put a stop to the pool. The first time he notified the sheriffs of Albany, Rensselaer and Schenectady county that he wanted them to stop the pool. That was last spring. A few days ago the governor wrote the sheriff of Columbia county saying he had been reliably informed the headquarters of the pool had been transferred to the city of Hudson. He told the Columbia county sheriff to get busy and stop it.

Close friends of the governor at the capitol today declared the executive was in dead earnest about stopping the pool. They predicted that the governor would wait for a few weeks and then if he became convinced the pool was still operating "someone would be called up on the carpet."

As many as 40,000 persons, each paying $1, play the pool, the governor said he had been informed. The first prize runs from $16,000 to $18,000 some weeks.

In his first letter directing the pool to be curbed, the governor said he had been informed that persons as far east as Boston played it.

"What at first appeared to be an innocent pleasure has now become alarming," the governor told the sheriffs.

Several raids have been made in Albany in the last few weeks but no evidence of the pool has been uncovered, according to the Albany county sheriffs.

For one week after the governor first issued orders to stop the pool it is said there was no plays made but the second week the headquarters are alleged to have been transferred to Hudson and the pool continued.

CONFESSES MAIL TRUCK ROBBERY WAS "FRAMED"

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Kewanee, Ills, Aug. 14.—After an all night grilling, Joe Jackson, 30, driver of the mail truck from which a lone bandit took a registered pouch believed to contain the pay roll of the Kewanee Boiler Works, today confessed the robbery was a "frame up" and named Phil Robinson of Casper, Wyo., as the confederate who escaped.

The robbery occurred on the railroad station platform at Kewanee shortly after the "Colorado Limited" of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad dropped off the consignment on its way west.

Jackson, driver of the mail truck, said he was compelled to drive three blocks west of the railroad station, where the thief tossed the pouch into a waiting automobile and hurriedly drove away.

Postal officials at Chicago, where the consignment originated were unable to give an estimate of the value official contents of the pouch. They intimated that it probably was considerable.

ALIENISTS TO TESTIFY DOROTHY IS SANE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 14.—Confession versus confession is the strange contest being waged in the trial of Dorothy Ellingson, 17 year old girl, on trial for the murder of her mother.

The defense was expected today to counter the success of the state in introducing the confession Dorothy made to police that she killed her mother, by reading to the jury a confession Dorothy wrote while in the Napa State Hospital in which she declared that Jimmie Lamar, dope fiend, killed Mrs. Ellingson.

The defense brought out in cross-examination of police witnesses that the state had made no effort to find Jimmie Lamar, despite the fact the girl originally accused him of the crime.

The defense was expected today also to make a fight to place before the jury the verdict of the jury which declared Dorothy insane.

Alienists were to testify today that the girl is sane.

Believe Missing Youth a Suicide

Weidman Bartlett Employed at Highland is Believed to Have Killed Himself—Asked For Poison in Highland Drug Store.

Believed to have committed suicide or to have met with foul play, Weidman Bartlett, 18 year old youth who had been employed at the hostelry of Nathan Friedman, Highland, is being sought by the police and State Troopers in Dutchess and Ulster counties.

The reports state that the youth had told several of Mr. Friedman's guests that he was going to put himself to death. Melancholia is said to be the cause of these statements. Young Bartlett is alone in the world, his parents having died several years ago. He told Mr. Friedman that he has been shifting for himself since that time.

Bartlett disappeared from the hotel Sunday and was not heard from until he was picked up in Poughkeepsie Monday at noon on a charge of vagrancy. He was discharged by Judge John B. Grubb with the understanding that he would at once return to the hotel and continue to work there.

Mr. Friedman states that he has learned that the boy was in a drug store in Highland prior to going to Poughkeepsie and that he was ordered out of the store when he asked for poison. It is alleged that he said: "Well, if I can't get it here I can in Poughkeepsie."

Mr. Friedman is of the opinion that the young man has carried out his threat to do away with himself and urges that the woods be searched as a likely place to find the body if this has been done.

Chaplin May Have Blood Poisoning

Physician Says Famous Film Comedian Suffers from Heart Attack But Broadway Rumor Substitutes Blood Poisoning as Cause of Illness.

By Telegraph to The Freeman

New York, Aug. 14.—Charlie Chaplin, famous film comedian, is recovering today from blood poisoning which threatened for a time to cause his death, according to a report buzzing along Broadway despite the statement of Dr. James McKenzie, one of Chaplin's attending physicians, that his patient was suffering from a heart attack brought on by overwork.

At the Ritz-Carlton Hotel, where the comedian has shut himself off from friends and interviewers, his secretary insisted Chaplin was recuperating from a "cold."

The secretary did not deny the blood poison rumor, referring all information concerning Chaplin's condition to Dr. McKenzie.

A hotel waiter who has brought food into the Chaplin suite declared the comedian's face appeared swollen.

"It might be from blood poisoning and it might be a cold. How should I know"? the waiter said.

JEKYLL AND HYDE MYSTERY FOUND IN MARSEILLES

Bad Checks Lead to Discovery of Body in Doctor's Cupboard.

Paris.—France succeeds in having at regular intervals murders of such dramatic mystery that one no longer wonders at the sources of her romantic detective tales. Her fiction can never rival facts. Today the mysterious disappearance on March 14 of one Jacques Rumede, a bill collector of Marseilles, has been explained and Paris is enjoying the "cupboard murder."

No clew could be found by the police last March, no explanation of the disappearance of M. Rumede was forthcoming. The mystery was solved by chance when some question of fraudulent checks brought detectives to the house of Dr. Pierre Bougrat, a physician, member of a socially prominent family, and a chevalier of the Legion of Honor.

Without any idea that they were stumbling upon a new Jekyll and Hyde the police were going through the doctor's papers, when they noticed a strange odor. It came from the laboratory. Nothing could be found and a gentle tapping of the walls failed to reveal any hidden recess until suddenly the detective's baton dislodged a tapestry and the wall behind it gave a hollow ring.

The section of wall was broken into and a long coffin-shaped cupboard discovered. Lying on the shelf, doubled up and partly decomposed, was the body of a man, Jacques Rumede. A sum of 12,000 francs which the bill collector had had on the eve of his disappearance was gone and examination disclosed that he had died of a mercury injection.

Find Body of Man.

Marseilles was aghast at the discovery, but soon complaints began to pour in to the police of other suspicious acts on the part of Doctor Bougrat. He was said to have robbed many of his patients after giving them drugs or injections which caused them to lose consciousness. He was charged with other cases of attempted murder. It was wondered whether he was not responsible for other disappearances.

All France Aroused.

The eyes of all France turned to Marseilles in horror with a realization of the crimes which a doctor, licensed to issue burial certificates and with drugs at his command, might commit.

For all his respectability it was found that Doctor Bougrat had been in serious financial difficulties since his friendship with a woman other than his wife had forced him into all sorts of extravagance. Hitherto unknown escapades became known, curious details of his life were discovered. The only explanation of having a dead man in a secret cupboard which he himself had advanced was that Rumede had committed suicide in his laboratory and he had hid the body.

Majority of Freed Convicts Successful

Milwaukee.—"Exactly 85 per cent of those who serve time in the penal institutions and are discharged make good," said F. E. Lyon, superintendent of the Central Howard association, Chicago, speaking at the Summerfield Methodist church.

"During 1924 we placed 2,384 men and boys in industry who had been discharged from corrective institutions. These earned $266,557.

The association is carrying on rehabilitation work in eight states: Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio, Michigan, Iowa and Minnesota.

Fish Caught in Garden Eating Carrot Tops

Middletown, N. Y.—Louis Bell waded into his garden at Bloomburg when it was covered with water as a result of the Shawangunk Kill overflowing and found a 15-pound German carp making a breakfast of carrot tops. He killed the carp with a spade.

Several farmers told Constable Miller that carp had done serious damage by feeding on their lettuce and asparagus beds. The constable set a number of fish traps in the flooded section and baited them with brussels sprouts, which he said no carp could resist.

Assault Case Adjourned.

The case of James Reid, colored, who was arrested on Sunday charged with striking Robert Nicholson, also colored with an iron hammer, was adjourned until August 28, in city court this morning.

Rides Fish to Shore After Taming It

Birmingham, Ala.—H. O. Bernard, secretary-treasurer of the Southern Pipe and Foundry company of Birmingham, claims he is the only experienced fish rider on the gulf.

Mr. Bernard with three companions is spending a vacation at Panama City, Fla. According to the story he and his companions tell they were driving along St. Andrew's bay when they spied a fish six feet long which had been stranded behind a reef by the receding tide. Mr. Bernard plunged into the water after the fish. After a struggle Mr. Bernard tamed the fish and rode it safely to the shore.

Mr. Bernard is having the fish mounted as complete proof that his tale is truthful.

FAITH HIS AID IN HEROIC DEED

Negro "Talked to God" While Risking Life.

Kansas City, Mo.—John Payne, six-foot negro laborer employed at the Liberty Memorial, believes his faith in God alone gave him the strength to perform a deed, akin to heroism, at the shaft recently in a violent windstorm.

W. B. Beam, superintendent of the stone work at the memorial, told the story.

One of the great steel cables on the scaffolding was torn loose in the storm. There was danger it would mar the surface of the shaft.

Mr Beam decided it was too dangerous for him to venture down a rope ladder to the scaffolding to secure the cable. John had followed him to the top.

"Let me go," offered Payne.

He climbed slowly over the ledge, 180 feet in the air, and down the rope, 30 feet, to the scaffold. There he secured the cable and dragged himself back up the swinging rope ladder. The wind was so strong he had to keep his face almost against the side of the shaft in order to get his breath. The trip took about six minutes. Mr. Beam, waiting at the top, said it seemed like an hour.

"John, I am sure glad you're back," he told Payne.

"Mr. Beam," John said, "If it hadn't been for my religion, I wouldn't be back. Yes, sir, it took all my faith. I talked to Him all the way down and I talked to Him all the way back. And He let me get back."

Ohio Game Preserves Cover 93,515 Acres

Columbus, Ohio.—Ohio soon will have more than 100,000 acres of land used as game refuges and will take rank with the leading states of the Union in providing sanctuaries for wild life.

At present, refuge land totals 93,515 acres, and this will be augumented by the establishment of preserves in Jefferson and Columbiana counties, under legislation enacted by the last general assembly.

The largest of the tracts is the Roosevelt refuge, which includes 16,000 acres. The total number of refuges in the state is 102.

In addition, the department of fish and game operates a pheasant farm at Wellington and a fish hatchery at London.

D. C. Thompson, chief game warden, has completed plans to establish a miniature zoo at the Roosevelt refuge. By July 1, more than fifty cages to house native fur-bearing animals and birds will have been completed and the zoo will be thrown open to sightseers.

Mother Saves 3 Children, Killed by Street Car

New York.—Deliberately sacrificing her own life to save those of three of her eight children, Mrs. Lena Tartar, forty-six years old, of Brooklyn, was mortally injured when she flung the children from the tracks of a street car on the Canarsie Shore line. The mother stood fast and the car mowed her down.

Mrs. Tartar was leading the children, Tessie, five years old; Isadore, eight, and Hyman, six, across the tracks when she glanced up and saw the car almost upon them. Swinging a child from each arm and pushing Isadore, she flung them from the tracks. Tessie failed to clear the car and was struck by the edge of the platform, suffering a fracture of the skull and possible internal injuries.

Mrs. Tartar stood still in the tracks and the car struck her. Her skull was fractured and she died on the way to the hospital.

Tries Five Times to Burn Schoolhouse in Revenge

Glendale, Cal.—Because Glendale barbers drew the color line and refused to trim his hair, Jesse Riley, a negro truck driver, tried five times to burn down the Doran street schoolhouse here, according to police. Burning down the schoolhouse was his idea of a fitting revenge on the community at large, officers said he explained. The five fires caused damage estimated at $12,300. Riley is in jail awaiting arraignment on a charge of arson.

Easier Terms For Belgium

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 14.—Considerably more lenient terms will be accorded Belgium in the settlement of her $480,000,000 war debt than were accorded other debtor nations in the settlements negotiated to date.

This appeared certain here today following another session of the Belgian and American commissions, in which it is understood the Belgians reported that they could not agree to the terms proposed by the American commission yesterday.

A high treasury official declared, however, that this should not be accepted as a "deadlock" but that both sides were very hopeful of an agreement.

The joint conferences were adjourned today until Tuesday to give Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Senator Smoot, Republican, of Utah, time to go to Plymouth, Vt., where they will make a report on the negotiations to date and ask President Coolidge's approval to negotiate a settlement with the Belgians on considerably easier terms.

During the interim, the Belgians will continue [illegible] with their government at Brussels, and it is expected that when the negotiations are resumed next Tuesday an agreement will be reached.

BACK TO NATURE.

We read that there is a great "back to nature" movement in Germany and that "tens of thousands" are shucking their clothes and "joining the cult of the nude." The craze for "sun bathing' is even sweeping beyond Germany into Sweden and Finland, with the hurried formation of clubs with such names as the Rhythm Seekers, the Band of Sun Friends, the League of Determined School Reformers and the True Alliance for Soaring Life. Mosquitoes and the police are obstacles in the path of complete nudity on this side of the Atlantic, but we also have our "back to nature" enthusiasts We read of one school that urges walking on tiptoe, like the gorilla, in order to attain the gorilla's tremendous chest, great strength and blooming health Others condemn the art of the cook and point out that all the biggest and most powerful beasts eat only green herbage or raw meat.

Presumably such "back to nature" movements are more than ever inevitable at a time when the scientific world shows increased determination to prove that man is only a refined beast, ascended by slow progressions from the lower animals It is scarcely to be wondered at that many of those accepting this as their faith should conclude that the road to health and physical strength leads back from man's over-refinements toward the habits of the ancestral beasts But one of the chief drawbacks to such ambition, however logical the reasoning on which it is based, is that, though the jungle counted many murders daily, it never produced a Phidias, a Shakespeare, an airplane, a radio, or sentiment crystallized in the injunction that we should do unto others as we would have them do unto us.

COURTS OR THE PUBLIC?

With Chicago's "murder a day" and convictions as rare as outdoor roses in January, no wonder the Tribune of that city declares that "the machinery for the defeat of the law against murder is elaborate and efficient." No doubt hundreds of less notorious cases as well as the Leopold-Loeb and Scott cases, confirm both the Tribune and the cynical statement made by a master of a ring of thugs and gun-men in Chicago to Richard Washburn Child. The latter is quoted by Mr. Child in a published article as follows:

> Murder is poor business. It shows bad gross and net income. But it's one of the safest crimes The chances are an even break that you will not be found or brought to trial. The chances are nearly 100 to 1 that you won't be executed The chances are 5 to 1 that even if you get into the pen, that you will be out before five years That's the truth. And the chances are you don't get into the pen anyhow You'll go to an insane asylum on the testimony of bought doctors. That's murder in this day and place, my friend. It's not the police; it's the law and the courts what does it.

Obviously this is true to a large extent not only of Chicago but of the country as a whole in these times. But is it only the courts "what does it," or the courts responding to the wishes of a public at heart against hangings and electrocutions? The true answer to this question is highly important. It looks more and more as if the public in its pity for criminals and partiality for light sentences is quite losing sight of the urgent need of its own protection.

Nathan Douchy of Troy, N. Y., aged 91, having ventured to attribute his long life to "whiskey and smoking" while visiting friends at Darien, Conn., Mrs. Alida J. Cumming, leader of the W. C. T. U. in Stamford in the same state announce her intention to appoint a W. C. T. U. committee "to find out just what did make him live so long." Thereupon the lively old near-centenarian came back with the emphatic declaration that this country is suffering not only from "prohibitionists, reformers and blue-sky laws" but from "domination by the feminine mind."

The enthusiastic reception given our fleet in Australian and New Zealand ports indicate a cordial attitude toward this country by Great Britain as well as by her dominions in the antipodes. Perhaps, after all, the best promise for the peace of the world is to be found in good feeling and community of interest among all the English-speaking peoples.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)

A VALUABLE DISCOVERY.

A new anaesthetic, Propryene, is being introduced to the profession by two Toronto physicians, Drs W. E. Brown and V. E. Henderson. The risk from anaesthesia is at present very low, but the aim of every anaesthetist is to render it one hundred per cent safe to undergo an operation.

With this new gas it will be possible to supply the patient with a very large amount of oxygen, so that there will be less embarrassment for heart and lungs.

Another advantage is that in some cases diabetes for instance, some anaesthetics deplete or lessen what is known as the alkaline reserve of the body. This alkaline reserve is your safety device, keeping you on top of the acid poisons of the system. But this new gas, Propryene, preserves or actually increases the alkaline reserve, and as one physician says, the day will soon be here when the very administering of this anaesthetic will be a treatment in itself to increase the alkaline reserve of the body

And an even greater advantage is claimed for this gas, in that it doesn't depress the heart as do some of the other anaesthetics. The breathing of the patient as well as the pulse is closely watched by the anaesthetist If the breathing becomes labored, or actually stops, the heart stops also, and then there is the necessity of resuscitating the patient It is practically always accomplished, but it interrupts the operation, and is unpleasant to say the least. However with this new gas, if the breathing becomes labored, irregular, or actually stops, the heart doesn't stop in sympathy, but continues to beat for some minutes after the lungs cease to act. During these minutes it is of course quite easy to restore the patient's breathing

A unique and interesting point in the description of the demonstration of this gas, is that Dr Brown permitted himself to be put under the effects of the gas by Dr. Henderson.

We will all await with interest the effects of this gas in a great many, and a great variety of cases, so that its real virtues may be definitely proven.

If operations are going to be actually one hundred per cent safe as far as the anaesthetic is concerned, it will be a great boon to many folks who quite naturally don't like the idea of going to sleep, even if the chance is only one in thousands that they'll not wake up.

COMPLAIN OF DETOUR BETWEEN SAUGERTIES AND CATSKILL

Motorists having occasion to use the road between Catskill and Saugerties are complaining of the six-mile detour it is necessary to take owing to repairs being made by the state highway. It is a rough road and said to be dangerous as well. Two trucks came to grief this week on the detour and narrowly missed being wrecked.

It is a matter of discussion among motorists as to why the State Highway Department does not insist on detours being made passable. It is usually the case that roads used temporarily during construction of or repairs to highways are hard to navigate and sometimes are dangerous. While it would cost money to fix these detours so as to make them much easier to ride over, the expenditure would be justified.—Catskill Mail.

One Thought At a Time

"THE LEDGER OF LIFE."

Your life is a ledger. So is mine. So is each and every individual life.

The same is true of the life of every institution. The life of every institution in the world is a ledger. The same is true of nations. The debit side of life's ledger is labelled with three letters, D. O. R. The credit side of the Ledger of Life is labeled with three letters, R. P. P.

The letters "D. O. R." stand for Duties, Obligations and Responsibilities.

The letters, "R. P. P." stand for Rights, Privileges and Prerogatives.

The books of the world are badly out of balance Did you ever stop to ask the question, "Why?"

What is the cause of the world-wide lack of economic balance and financial equilibrium?

The answer is plain in the light of natural law.

It is because so many millions of people in the world have been and are now poor bookkeepers when making entries in the Ledger of Life

Millions have been and are yet making nearly all their entries on the credit side; crediting themselves with imaginary Rights, Privileges and Prerogatives.

They do this by striving in almost every possible way to get more "R P. P's," yet millions overlook trying the only possible way to procure and secure R P P's which is through the fulfillment of perfectly natural duties, obligations and responsibilities

Rights, Privileges and Prerogatives are mental mirages—they do not exist There are no such things except as the effects flowing from the fulfillment of natural Duties, Obligations and Responsibilites

BROOKLYN BRIDGE.

The first wire for the Brooklyn suspension bridge was stretched across the East River 49 years ago today. The great bridge was designed by John A. Roebling, and work commenced early in 1870. The Brooklyn tower was finished in 1875, and in July, 1876, the Manhattan tower was completed.

Cable-making commenced in 1877, and the bridge was formally opened in 1883. Roebling, the designer of the bridge, died in 1869, before the actual work was commenced on the structure, and it was carried out by his son, Washington A. Roebling.

In 1842 building was again resumed, and the structure completed several years later. * * * On this date in 1775 the famous Liberty Tree was consecrated by exposing on it the effigies of the men who had rendered themselves odious by their agency in procuring the passage of the Stamp Act. Soldiers Arrive At Camp Pine

Kingston Soldiers Working Hard But Find Time for Recreation—Will Be on Camp Tour Fifteen Days.

The First Battalion Headquarters, Headquarters Battery and Combat Train Battery "A" and Battery "B," 156th Field Artillery, stationed at the local armory, arrived at Camp Pine for their fifteen day camp tour early Sunday morning with the sun beautifully rising and with the boys in the best of spirits, according to letters received by the soldiers' families. Later in the day, after most of the necessary work of making camp was completed, a few showers cut short the merriment of the boys, who were engaged in having a general good time for the opening day. The first day in camp, however was without much interest with the exception of making camp and the issuing of the property necessary.

Monday morning at 5:45 o'clock the soldiers heard the first bugle call of the camp, which was a call for the boys to rise for their daily routine of duty. Monday morning was devoted to assignment of the horses, harnessing by detail, fitting and adjustment of harness, unharnessing by detail and disposition of harness on poles by the drivers. The afternoon was given over to harnessing by detail, position mounted, holding reins, starting, turning and halting the pair, unharnessing by detail by the drivers.

Monday the cannoneers were given instruction in the cleaning and equipping of material, drill and gun squads in gun park, nomenclature of material. In the afternoon the cannoneers devoted their time to gun drill and drill of the battery in the gun park, referring the piece and measuring the deflection.

Tuesday and Wednesday were also devoted to instruction along these lines. Wednesday afternoon was a half holiday and many of the boys took advantage by going riding, taking trips to Canada, the Thousand Islands and other places of interest.

RED MEN TO MEET AT ELLENVILLE AUGUST 22.

The date of the convention is August 22, at Ellenville, and Red Men who intend to make the trip should bear this in mind. The Ellenville Red Men are planning for a big time for the visitors from the Hudson Valley Tribes.

Sailors Use Odd Words

Prof. George T. Flom of the University of Illinois says that the reason sailors use such strange and odd words is traceable to the mystery of the sea and the sailors' fear of the mysterious power of the sea. Uncommon words are employed to cope with the feeling that they are intruders in a realm ruled over by powers more mysterious and terrible than any on earth.

Argue Home Rule Appeal Sept. 1

All Papers Must be Filed With Court of Appeals by August 20—Virtually Every City in State to be Represented.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Aug. 14.—Never in the history of the state has so much time been spent in preparing a case as that of the home rule appeal which will be argued before the court of appeals on September 1.

For the last six weeks William A. Walling, assistant corporation counsel of New York city, has been working in the legislative library from early morning until late night on the appeal. He has searched through old records dating back 100 years in an effort to find something that would help the highest court in the state to uphold the validity of the home rule amendment.

All papers in the appeal must be filed with the court of appeals by August 20. This is said to be the first time the court has ever requested the filing of papers before the case is argued. The reason for this it was said, is that the members of the court want to become thoroughly familiar with the case before they hear it in open court.

Supreme Court Justice Burr in New York held the home rule amendment was invalid because of a change made in the wording after it had been passed by the senate and sent to the assembly. Members of the home rule commission, which prepared the amendment, are confident the highest court will uphold its constitutionality.

Officials of the State Federation of Labor are vitally interested in the outcome of the home rule appeal. Should the highest court uphold the ruling by Justice Burr, it was declared at the capitol today that it would mean that the amendment which was adopted by the voters years ago for workmen's compensation also would be invalid.

Bainbridge Colby of New York, noted lawyer, is expected to make the principal argument in the court of appeals against Justice Burr's ruling. Virtually all cities in the state will be represented at the hearing by their corporation counsels.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

By Mary Graham Bonner

COPYRIGHT BY WESTERN NEWSPAPER UNION

EMELINE'S DAYS

Emeline lives quite far north and quite far west on a farm. She loves her life there. She lives with her daddy, and mother, and brother, and on the farm there are many animals.

In the winter it gets quite cold, so Emeline wears heavy woolen stockings which her grandmother, who lives quite far east, knits for her.

Sometimes she knits them for herself, too, for she is very capable. When the autumn comes she knits herself a pair of skating stockings which are very warm, and a little toque. Then she doesn't feel cold, but enjoys the sharp, fine, clear air.

When the autumn comes the ice begins to cover the ponds and skating rinks, and Emeline and her brother can hardly wait until it is hard enough to stand on.

Emeline's favorite color is brown, for she thinks that is so cozy and warm and soft and beautiful a color. For best, she wears a brown hat and brown coat and brown dress.

In the autumn, before the snow comes, they finish threshing, and Emeline calls it winter before those who lived further south of her would think of calling it winter. They would be saying that winter was on its way and would come before long, while Emeline would say that winter had come.

In the winter there isn't much work on the farm. Emeline and her father milk the cows in the morning and at night, and look after the calves.

Emeline has a pigeon which began sitting on two eggs even after there had been a slight fall of snow.

Emeline said she thought the pigeon must be crazy not to mind the snow, but the pigeon evidently knew her own business.

Sometimes one pigeon would sit, and then the other would take the place while the first one went for a drink and a bath in the water trough.

Now Emeline has quite large feet, but they're good feet and take her long distances without getting tired, so she really can't complain of them. She takes a size seven shoe and a B width, but she says she likes to have it roomy enough. She doesn't want her feet to feel cramped and as though they were prisoners inside the shoes.

Her Mother Is Teaching Her to Knit.

She loves to read papers and magazines and books. Her mother is teaching her to knit new "feet" into old socks of her dad's, and Emeline feels she will be really helpful to both her mother and her dad when she knows how to do this. She will also be able to help her brother in this way.

She is also learning to embroider and is planning to make many of her Christmas presents for her family and friends.

Her brother rides to school which is quite a distance, and when it is cold it makes a cold ride. He is busy all the time, too, for life on the farm is wonderfully interesting and there is always so much to be done.

They have a pig named Peter which they raised from a tiny pig, together with a family of pups. The mother dog fed the pig as well as her own puppies, so that Peter felt he really was a dog and would have nothing to do with his brother and sister pigs when he grew up.

"I may look like a pig, and I may be a pig," he seemed to say, "but I associate with dogs and people." He hurt himself not long ago, and has a little limp, but is getting better. He is still young enough to be up to a great deal of mischief, for the other day he walked up on the porch and upset a box of nails.

He was chased back to the barn after this, but came right back again. They couldn't help but be amused.

So Emeline's days are very busy with lots to do, lots to read, lots to think about.

No wonder she enjoys life so much! And she plays the piano, too.

Oh, she is becoming more capable all the time.

But as for Peter, the pig, he is becoming very fat, and there is talk about a future date when Peter will have to help with the meals—not at the table as a guest, but on the table as food.

The Antonym

"Willie, do you enjoy caddying for your father?"

"Oh, yes, it's lots of fun."

"I hope he never uses any—er—naughty words."

"Well, mother, when he makes a bad shot he sometimes uses a—the feminine of heaven."

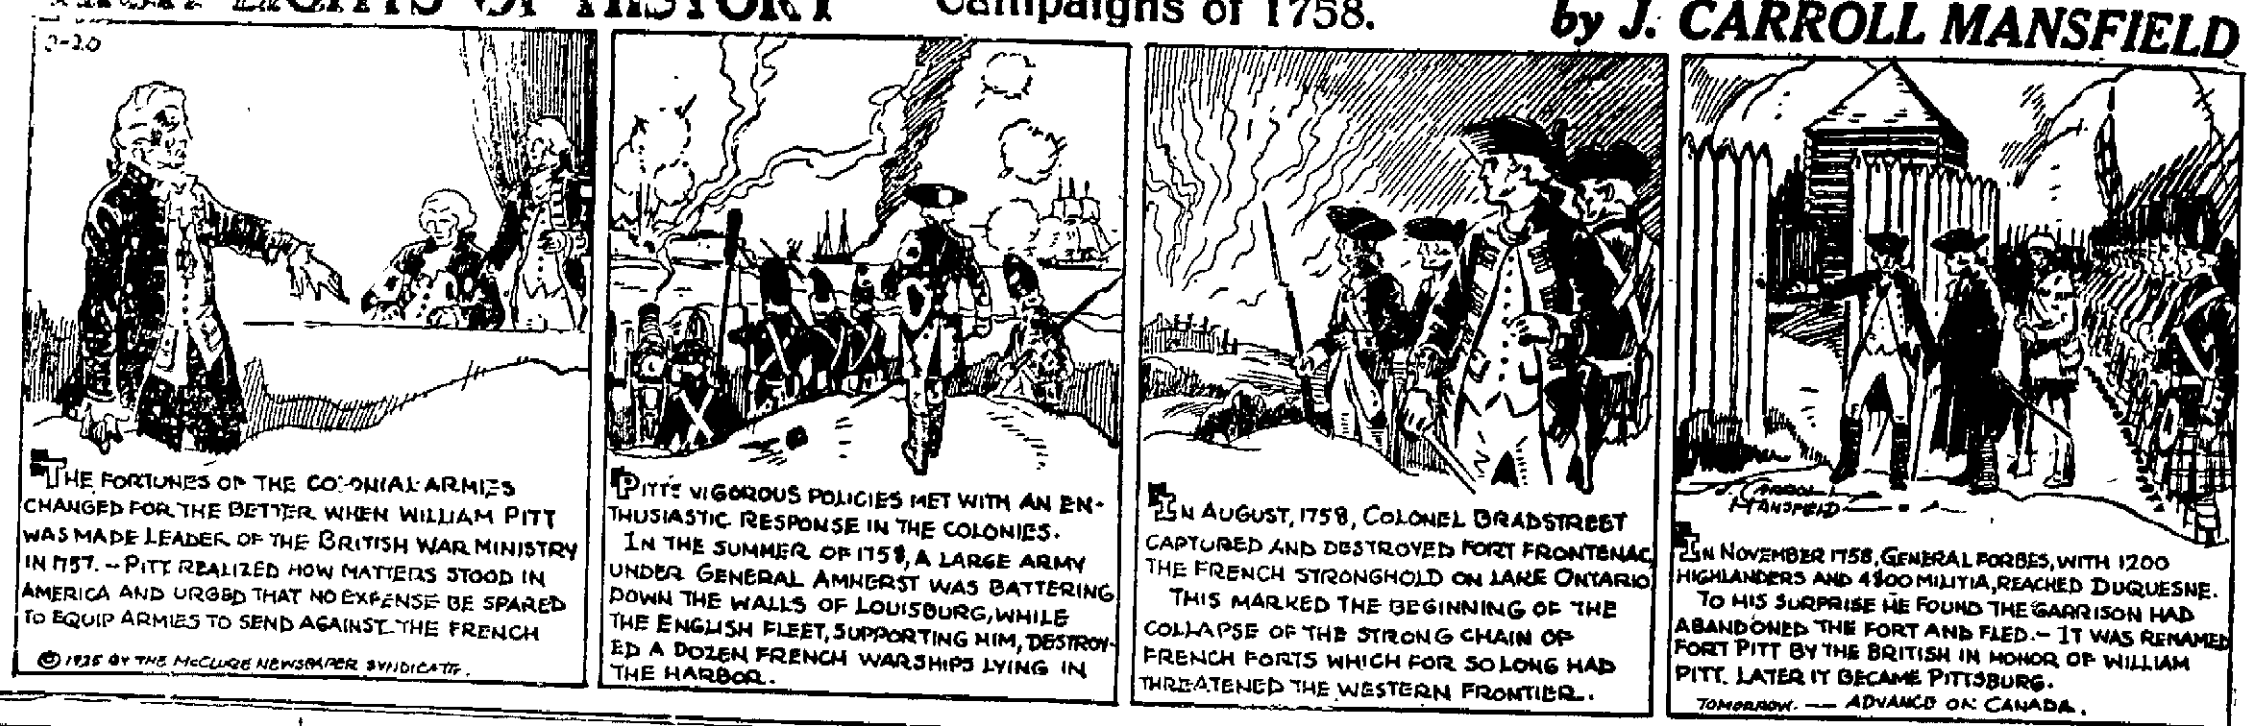
HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY Campaigns of 1758. by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD



THE FORTUNES OF THE COLONIAL ARMIES CHANGED FOR THE BETTER WHEN WILLIAM PITT WAS MADE LEADER OF THE BRITISH WAR MINISTRY IN 1757.—PITT REALIZED HOW MATTERS STOOD IN AMERICA AND URGED THAT NO EXPENSE BE SPARED TO EQUIP ARMIES TO SEND AGAINST THE FRENCH

© 1925 BY THE McCLURE NEWSPAPER SYNDICATE.

PITT'S VIGOROUS POLICIES MET WITH AN ENTHUSIASTIC RESPONSE IN THE COLONIES.

IN THE SUMMER OF 1758, A LARGE ARMY UNDER GENERAL AMHERST WAS BATTERING DOWN THE WALLS OF LOUISBURG, WHILE THE ENGLISH FLEET, SUPPORTING HIM, DESTROYED A DOZEN FRENCH WARSHIPS LYING IN THE HARBOR.

IN AUGUST, 1758, COLONEL BRADSTREET CAPTURED AND DESTROYED FORT FRONTENAC, THE FRENCH STRONGHOLD ON LAKE ONTARIO.

THIS MARKED THE BEGINNING OF THE COLLAPSE OF THE STRONG CHAIN OF FRENCH FORTS WHICH FOR SO LONG HAD THREATENED THE WESTERN FRONTIER.

IN NOVEMBER 1758, GENERAL FORBES, WITH 1200 HIGHLANDERS AND 4800 MILITIA, REACHED DUQUESNE.

TO HIS SURPRISE HE FOUND THE GARRISON HAD ABANDONED THE FORT AND FLED.—IT WAS RENAMED FORT PITT BY THE BRITISH IN HONOR OF WILLIAM PITT. LATER IT BECAME PITTSBURG.

GOOD THINGS TO EAT

Summery desserts appeal at this season. Ice cream and frozen dishes lead in favor, though many puddings are very popular.

Plum Pudding Jelly.—Cover half a box of gelatin with one-half cupful of cold water and let stand for half an hour. Chop one cupful of raisins, add one-fourth of a cupful each of currants and sliced citron. Cover the fruit with a tablespoonful of orange juice. Scald two cupfuls of milk, add one cupful of sugar, stir until dissolved. Melt an ounce of chocolate or cocoa over hot water, add to the scalded milk with the gelatin which has been dissolved over hot water. Strain into the milk and remove from the fire. Let the pudding stand until it begins to thicken before adding the fruit. Stir it in gently until well-mixed. Turn into a mold and put away to harden.

Frozen Pudding.—Scald one cupful of milk, add one and one-half cupfuls of sugar, and stir until dissolved. Mix one tablespoonful of cornstarch with a little cold milk, add the beaten yolk of an egg, add to the milk and cook fully three-quarters of an hour, stirring occasionally. Take from the fire and add a pinch of salt, a teaspoonful of vanilla, one cupful of chopped raisins, and one-fourth cupful of nuts. When cold add one cupful of preserved peaches or other fruit, and a pint of whipped cream; freeze. Half a box of gelatin may be used in place of the cornstarch.

Currant Ice.—Take three cupfuls of currant juice, two cupfuls of sugar, and one cupful of water. Cook the sugar and water till it spins a thread, take from the fire and add the currant juice. Chill in a freezer and freeze. When nearly frozen add the whites of two eggs beaten to a stiff froth with two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Freeze until firm, pack and let stand to ripen.

When baking apples, vary the flavor by adding grated orange or lemon peel, rubbing a loaf of sugar over the fruit to get the flavor. Insert the sugar in the cavity. Raisins and figs are delicious stuffing for baked apples.

Challenged Votes May Alter Result

Steck Gains Over Brookhart In Iowa Senatorial Contest But Challenged Votes May Finally Decide Election.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 14.—Daniel F. Steck, Democrat, has made steady gains on Senator Brookhart, Republican, in the recount of votes cast in Iowa for the senatorship, it is disclosed in the vote tabulation completed as of today by the senate committee.

The total of the gain by Beck with two-thirds of the recount complete is placed unofficially between 700 and 800.

Official announcement by state officials of the election of Brookhart placed his majority at 755.

It is the general belief the contest must be decided finally on disposal of the challenged votes. The senate privileges and elections committee will make its decision and the senate itself will take final action.

There is to date a total of 4,325 challenged ballots, 3,299 of them having voted for Brookhart and 1,026 for Steck.

Locates the Pain

Vagrant aches and pains which often afflict the stomach and are hard to identify may now be accurately located and classified by an instrument resembling a miniature seismograph, the device with which earthquake tremors are recorded, according to Popular Mechanics Magazine. The pain finder, devised by Dr. W. C. Alvarez of the University of California, is said to register the course of such ills in almost any part of the abdomen and to clearly reveal every step of the digestive processes. By the recorder, the passage of food through the digestive tract can be closely followed, and the exact spot and instant of the setting up of any trouble definitely learned in a few minutes. The instrument, called the multiple-electro-enterograph, is said to obtain its data by means of a pendulum swung in a vacuum tube and marks its records with a needle.

CAPONS COMPARED WITH MALE BIRDS

That caponizing pays but that capons do not gain anywhere near what is claimed by some, is indicated by the results of an experiment conducted by the poultry department at South Dakota State college.

According to these claims, the capon should gain twice as much as a rooster of the same age and breed, but a 10 per cent gain is about the best to expect. The lighter breeds like Leghorns, do not really gain at all. Since chickens usually hatch late on the farm and since there is usually plenty of feed, caponizing will probably pay the farmer. The birds should be caponized when developing wattles and combs, or better when they weigh about two pounds in the American or medium-weight breeds. The capons can be shipped in barrels holding 150 to 200 pounds, during January and February, and bring a good price.

Two weeks before marketing, the capons should be put in close quarters and fed on fattening rations, such as milk, corn meal, bran, tankage, etc. Any combination like corn and milk is very good. During the time previous to these two weeks, the capons can be fed on corn and can be allowed to run with the pullets.

In dressing capons for market, only the soft feathers need be removed. The coarse feathers on the wings, tail, etc., may be left on. The capons must be dry-picked, if a good price is expected.

As capon feathers, especially white ones, are in demand and will bring from 85 to 90 cents per pound, the farmer can afford to keep them clean and dry and the colors unmixed.

To have capons mother little chicks does not pay. This means that capons have to be kept over winter. Three or four dollars are thus invested in them, whereas an old hen would do better.

Must Feed Hens Mash to Fill Summer Egg Basket

"Hens will not lay eggs in the summer unless they are supplied with all the mash they can eat," says Duncan H. Reid of the poultry department, University of Wisconsin. During the spring months, the wet ground and grass are full of insects which provide plenty of animal feed for the hens, but when summer comes the insects disappear and this lack of animal food must be supplied through the mash.

A good ration recommended by Mr. Reid consists of 100 pounds of ground corn, 100 pounds of ground oats, 100 pounds of wheat bran, 100 pounds of wheat middlings, 100 pounds of meat scrap, and 5 pounds of salt. When milk is fed with the mash, the meat scrap should be cut in half.

"A hen should receive two ounces of grain a day and all the mash she can eat," says Mr. Reid. "The grain ration should consist of corn supplemented with 25 per cent wheat and oats. This is contrary to the general belief that corn furnishes too much heat. Tests have shown that the best results are obtained when this ration is used. The grain should be fed a little in the morning and heavy at night. The mash should be changed at least once a week. A lack of oyster shell during the summer months will cut egg production in half. Green feed, such as clover, when mixed with the mash, has a decided advantage even if the green feed is growing in the yard."

Poultry Notes

For some reason, not fully understood, thick, sour skimmed milk seems to have a greater value for hens than sweet milk.

The old idea of ducking and starving to prevent broodiness is not to be recommended where further egg production is desired.

Green feed at all seasons is a necessity for health and egg production. Large quantities of mangels and cabbages can be produced on a very small area.

Chickens, to be fed profitably, should first be kept growing during the growing season. To best accomplish this they should be given a varied diet of meat and vegetable protein.

Lime is the principal constituent of egg shells and hens should be provided with lime if they cannot gather it naturally. It can be given in the form of crushed lime stone, crushed egg shells, etc.

Many farmers begrudge a hen every bite that goes down her neck, and numerous early risers on the farm get up to feed the hens before daylight to keep the hens from eating with them.

Poultrymen are finding out that hens will lay as freely without the company of males as with them. This fact permits the lessening of expenses by doing away with the roosters. It is also a fact that eggs that are infertile will keep much the longest.

Girls Have Fun At Camp Wendy

Extraordinary One Ring Circus and Side Show Provide Entertainment For Girl Scouts—Camp Will Close August 27.

Camp Wendy, the Girl Scout camp at St. Elmo, will close August 27, the most successful summer's work ever undertaken by the Girl Scouts in this county. There are now 57 girls in camp. There are 10 councilors, not all under pay, and training is being given in arts and crafts, dramatics, swimming, home making and many other things. A trained nurse is stationed at the camp and special attention is given to the diet of the girls. Paint for the mess hall has been contributed by the Sherwin-Williams Co., and will be applied by the girls.

Those who did not see the one ring, peanut eating, lemonade drinking circus last Saturday missed a wonderful show. This circus was out of the ordinary. In the first place the side show was unique in that the "freaks" were natural. Then there was a melodrama of blood curdling nerve wrecking acting. It was the capture of the paleface maiden by wild Indians, with a thrilling modern rescue by auto over stone walls, through corn fields and short cuts, making Kingston in forty minutes.

Immediately after the drama, the performing animals were exhibited, consisting of wild lions, horses, elephants and seals presided over by a "ring master" who was singularly adapted for the position and costumed in an original manner, sporting an embryo mustache patented by this world famous player.

The performance of the "child wonder" imported especially for the occasion, was indeed a wonder, as was the slide for life by the "twin sisters" on the slack wire. Then there was the woman who keeps her home in order surpassing in strength Samson or the modern Sandow. And the high diving! An Annette Kellerman combined with a Gertrude Ederle ascended to a height higher than any "star" on the Rialto ever reached and then gracefully dived into a shallow pool and emerged therefrom as smilingly as Lorelei.

The acrobatics were unparalleled in the hippodromes of the old or new world past or present. For instance, in mid air two actresses attired in green and red respectively performed the most hazardous gymnastics especially the one in green, whose contortionistic feats were such that while suspended at an enormous height she twisted and turned her body, tying herself in such a knot that it was only with the utmost efforts she releases herself.

There were the venders of the peanuts, hot dogs, mummified cake, Volstead coffee and frozen "A" grade milk, a treat being the slippery seal in natural habiliment barking out the wares.

Black Flag—Surest Death of All to Flies ✱ And Mosquitoes ✕ Not One Escapes!

The death-dealing, secret ingredient in BLACK FLAG lets no bug escape. It kills every fly, mosquito and roach in your home. It is the surest death to insect pests ever discovered. But it is absolutely harmless to humans and animals.

Bugs breathe BLACK FLAG and die. It strangles them. It kills every bug. That is where it differs from ordinary insecticides which kill, at best, only 6 out of every 10. The four which get away breed hundreds which return.

BLACK FLAG kills 10 out of every 10. And it kills flies, mosquitoes, roaches, ants, bedbugs, dog fleas, moths, plant lice and chicken lice. It will completely rid a home of pests when all else fails.

It is death, sure and swift, for roaches, too!

BLACK FLAG comes in both liquid and powder forms. They are equally deadly to all bugs, with these three exceptions—always use the powder to kill dog fleas and lice. Always use the powder on furs to make them mothproof—never use any liquid on furs.

Use both liquid and powder. Many people prefer the liquid to kill flies, mosquitoes and moths—and the powder to kill roaches, ants, bedbugs, dog fleas and lice.

BLACK FLAG costs less. Powder, 15c up. Powder Gun, 10c. Liquid, 25c up. Sprayer, 45c. Introductory package containing can of liquid and sprayer for only 65c. At drug, grocery, hardware and department stores. Buy BLACK FLAG today.

Cool Light Blue for Smart Sports Dress

This suit of cool light-blue balbriggan is refreshing to look upon—and it's delightfully cool to wear where sports dress is required. Pearl buttons trim this simple little suit, and a blue felt hat completes the horizon-tinted outfit.

Suitable Clothes to Wear on Your Outing

The most enjoyable vacation clothes are the sports type that answer all the needs of general wear—simple one-piece dresses with short sleeves, belted or plain. The V neckline, collarless or with a convertible collar, is used most frequently for the sports dress.

There are also the two-piece sports costumes that often feature the kick plait. This is a smart provision of fashion for active sports wear—tennis golfing or hiking.

Borders, stripes and plaids are featured for sports wear and plain fabrics in daringly bright colors. A list of favored sports materials would include flannel, jersey, kasha, homespun, challis, silk crepe, tub silks, silk broadcloth, pongee, linen and gay-striped English broadcloth. Silk and cotton mixtures also account for mnay interesting novelty weaves. The variety of reds this season illustrates the importance of colorful effects.

With the sports costume one may wear a small hat of felt or straw or a large-brimmed hat, with simple trimming. The shoes are usually some sort of strap pump.

For afternoon and informal evening wear, you will want at least one of the fashionable printed frocks, with, perhaps, a jabot frill or graceful drapery to soften the severity of the straightline silhouette. The formal evening dress, however, is developed in a plain silk in one of the vivid shades and is often elaborately embroidered in beads.

Then there are the new bathing suits, which will be of interest to the vast majority of vacationists.

Ribbons-Flowers Trim Summer-Autumn Hats

The leading Paris milliners are producing ribbon and flower trims for summer and feather and ostrich trims for fall. In this one sentence, according to information received from that city by the Retail Millinery Association of America, is contained the entire fashion forecast.

"Reboux has a new hat that she is selling in large numbers to the American tourists, as well as the Parisienne vacationist," says the New Millinery Bulletin, the official organ of the association. "It is a crocheted straw so fine in pattern that it looks at first glance exactly like a bengal straw, but it is really a knitted straw thread. These new hats are made in all colors and trimmed chiefly with ribbon. Sometimes they are trimmed with anemones, in delicate tones, a bunch of these flowers being placed over the right ear of the wearer.

"Ostrich tassels are used a great deal in Paris to trim midsummer hats. Lucie Hamar used glycerined ostrich tassels in red and gold to trim a small cloche of quilted faille silk. The tassels, three in number, were arranged at the right side, dropping over the ear. Georgette embroiders her capelines with chenille, which is used to make a ridge around the edge of the wide brims, and futuristic motifs are scattered over the brim and the crown."

Sleeves for Fall Are Long and Ornamented

The sleeves of the fall season are decorative, and while they are long and fitted in character, few are made without some ornate finish from elbow to cuff. No matter how wide they may flare, they are always caught with a narrow cuff.

Plaited frills, puffed fullness and slashed openings all lend an elaborate air to sleeves, and double treatments in contrasting colors are also noted. Agnes uses black over green, with slashed openings revealing the brighter color and a fine tinsel embroidery that garnishes it.

Small Kindnesses Count

You know that a little thought and a little kindness are often worth more than a great deal of money. This charity of thought is not merely to be exercised toward the poor; it is to be exercised toward all men.—John Ruskin.

THE AUTUMN BRIDE MUST HAVE AN ELABORATE HOPE CHEST AS FASHION INSISTS ON LAVISH USE OF LACE.

A peep into hope chests these days is looking at the foam of the sea. Lingerie has taken on elaboration and is once more trimmed lavishly with delicate traceries of lace or foaming ruffles which cascade jabot fashion from the neck to hem of one's robe de nuit.

There are lace yokes of all shapes and depths, vestees, panels and all manner of intricate and dainty trimming, often involving several lace meshes, and frequently ignoring white in preference to ochre and tinted effects.

Crepe de Chine With Blue Ribbon Shoulder Straps, Deep Yoke and Insertions of Lace Makes the Above Model.

Net footing is another dainty medium. Point Venice—a more elegant one. Gowns and chemises must "match up," of course. Both are pleated and may be ruffled at the hem.

Color continues to be important, with peach, maize, periwinkle, blue and orchid preferred to flesh—only by way of change.

The waistline has added another new note, as it continues to be the custom to develop lingerie after the silhouette of outer things Ribbon threaded through lace or tied about the waistline is the most usual form of defining the waist. Ribbon, both for this purpose and for shoulder straps, usually contrasts with the material, and is often two-toned.

Gowns with scalloped hems and gowns with contrasting binding and inserts are charming. It must be borne in mind that the fashionable woman buys her lingerie in sets.

BLACK CREPE SATIN SPONSORED FOR FALL

Fall afternoon and street dresses for youthful women which are being shown include black crepe satin. This, as well as navy, tan, chartreuse, and other colors, are represented in long-sleeved models.

Pleats and flares claim the sides on some models and the back on many more.

There is a tendency on the part of collars to the long narrow scarf type. This is particularly apparent where fur is used. Nutria forms one of this kind, while another has a collar of white fur with cuffs and bands on the skirt to match. Chartreuse forms the collar, jabot, and cuffs of a third, while a tanager model is edged in pink pearls.

The long sleeves are full, gathered into a narrow cuff, on most of these dresses. On one the lower part of the sleeve is black embroidered silk net.

A tan wool frock with bolero waist has the same effect at the hem of the skirt. The collar and undercuff are of yellow.

Hobbies of the Great and the Near Great

Being a Series of Intimate Glimpses Into the Fads and Foibles of Well-Known Figures in National Life.

This is the twenty-third of a series of intimate sketches which reveal the national political figure as a "brother under the skin" to the man behind the plow, the white collar worker or the day laborer. Others will follow.

SENATOR JOHN B. KENDRICK.

A half century ago four gaunt horsemen drove a herd of cattle across the wild western plains from Texas into Wyoming on a bandit-infested, Indian-menaced and rustler-lined route. Theirs was a wonder achievement for the cattle world.

One of the four was Senator John B. Kendrick (D., of Wyo.), now a leader of the nation's Democracy and then an eighteen-year-old Texas cowboy. That great ride, written since into the archives of the west and into the pages of frontier fiction, gave birth to the senator's greatest hobby—a love for the western ranges.

Kendrick now owns a 105,000 acre cattle range, sweeping from Wyoming into Montana. That's an area three times the size of the District of Columbia—almost a state by itself. And on it the senator spends all his vacations and most of the time he's away from Washington. It represents his first great industrial achievement and his last, for on it the senator expects to end his days.

There is little about Kendrick to indicate his early frontier life—except his eyes. They peer out from under shaggy eyebrows, with lines radiating from the corners due to gazing across broad, wind-swept spaces. His is the frontiersman's mask.

Raises Livestock.

The senator doesn't talk much of those early days. His interest is more in the present, for livestock raising has become an even more precarious undertaking than it was in that early period when cattlemen warred not only against rustlers, but against marauding bands of Indians and the Jesse James type of bandits as well.

The senator loves the range and the rancher's life. When on his great range he will rise with the dawn, eat his "chuck" in the mess-hall, or at the wagon on the range, rope his own horse and then help ride herd with his weather-beaten band of cow-punchers. He rides in every round-up to which he can escape from his senatorial duties, and he still maintains much of his former ability with the lariat and the branding iron.

"I've ridden the range since my youth," he says. "And I still do. I love the open and the feel of a horse beneath me. I love the grandeur of the west, its plains, valleys and mountain peaks. There is no other life to match it."

Fools Cowboys.

Not so long ago, on one of his visits to the ranch, some of the cowboys thought they'd have a little fun with the "Governor." (Kendrick is "Governor" to his boys, because he ruled the state before coming to Washington.) They staked out a wild broncho for the boss to ride, figuring on having a laugh when he was thrown.

The senator "bit" for the staked-out horse, mounted him and was almost catapulted into the next county on the first buck. He just did manage to hang on until he got his old grips working, and then he buckled down to mastering the wild animal. After some ten minutes of tussling, Kendrick climbed down from a thoroughly subdued bronco, which was ready to trot gently and politely wherever the senator directed. Then the boss turned and laughed at his range crew.

"I had the last laugh, anyway," was his only comment.

Poor Golfer.

For exercise while in the capital, Kendrick plays golf. He has spent three years, it is said, in trying to reduce his score below 100, but without material success.

Because of his love for the west the senator also loves western fiction. It is said by his friends that he himself is characterized in Zane Grey's "Lone Star Ranger" as well as in Emerson Hough's "North of 36," which is a story of the first great cattle drive from Texas. He is also a constant reader of constitutional authorities.

The senator has one weakness—an incordinate fondness for bow ties. His intimate friends whisper that he has collected 571 different bow ties by actual count and never wears the same one twice. Incidentally, he always wears a bow tie and never has been seen with a four-in-hand. The bows are of all shades and colors, but generally the senator prefers blacks.

The Senator's hobbies can be rounded up with just two more—a love for vaudeville and a habit of taking long, solitary walks. On the latter he may be found in out-of-the-way spots, where he roams in his quest for entertainment. Indeed, he is one of the senate's best hikers, though no contest has ever decided the championship.

Tomorrow — Senator Charles McNary.

No Coffey-Motto Bout.

A large number of boxing fans went to Chadwick Park, Albany, Thursday night to watch Vince Coffey of this city and Paddy Motto clash only to be disappointed for the gates were locked and the park was deserted. It is reported that the entire show consisting of a number of bouts with the Coffey-Motto affair as the main bill had been postponed because of the rain and no announcement had been made by officials of the Chadwick Park A. Walters, N. Y. Abner Shattuck of this place has the prize moustache of the village. Also Abner is a very practical man, a tailor by trade. When he is sewing he sticks pins and needles into his moustache and says he doesn't know of a more convenient place. He frequently has as many as 100 pins and needles in his moustache at once. When he is working and has to leave the shop he does not stop to remove the pins. Strangers stare at the human pin cushion, and his best girl is careful to extract 'em before there's any kissing done.

Honolulu

Honolulu this time was a revelation. A magic wand had touched the place and transformed it, even as Miami and Los Angeles have been transformed. It is now a flourishing city in a setting of surpassing loveliness. There is life and progress and enterprise on all sides. The down-town district has become metropolitan and up-to-date. The mountain sides are terraced with beautiful houses to which perfect roads, flower-lined, wind upward under canopies of great spreading trees.

One cannot be long in Honolulu without observing the racial problems which confront its administrators. Over 42 per cent of the population is Japanese, while only 9 per cent is American, British and German. The remainder is divided between Filipinos, Chinese, Hawaiian, semi-Hawaiian and Portuguese. I have seen a photograph of 32 school girls, each of a different race or racial combination.—John T. McCutcheon, in Hearst's International-Cosmopolitan.

Her Own Fault

The train was about to start when the door of a compartment containing a solitary commercial traveler was flung open and a young woman entered and dropped into a corner seat.

After a while the traveler said, politely: "Excuse me, miss, but—"

"If you speak or annoy me I'll pull the communication cord," snapped the girl.

The train rolled on, and after a lengthy pause the young man made another attempt to speak, but again the girl threatened to give the alarm.

At last the train slowed up at a station and the traveler rose to his feet.

"I don't care whether you like it or not," he said, "but I want that bag of strawberries you've been sitting on for the last six miles."

New York State Feed Crops Fair

Growing Condition of Corn Crop Way Above Last Year According to State and Federal Report—Potatoes and Beans Fair.

New York State will be relatively well situated as to feed crops this winter, according to the combined state and federal crop report for August issued from the New York State Department of Farms and Markets. The growing condition of the corn crop (86 per cent) is way above 72 per cent at this time last year. The crop is growing rapidly and except on wet land is generally good color Should there be no unfavorable setbacks, the crop in this state will probably furnish a fifth more of nutrients than last year. About half he New York acreage is cut for silage.

The aggregate harvest of oats, barley, rye and buckwheat in the state now promises 44,000 tons more than last year, of feed grains. The concentrated feed crops grown in other states are, with the exception of wheat, about average or better The United States wheat crop will be nearly a fourth less than last year. Corn is much better than last year and somewhat above average. Oats are about average with barley even better. Flaxseed is less than last year but well above previous years while the present forecasts of cotton seed are for a large crop.

The state hay crop of 6,001,000 tons is only average and far melow last year's crop of 7,241,000 tons, with particularly poor yields in the extreme western, southwestern and southeastern counties The hay crop in central and northern counties is very good, however, though harvest has been retarded by wet weather, with consequent damage from becoming overripe or wet. The carryover of hay from last year is large.

The United States hay crop as a whole is poor, the north central states from Ohio westward to Iowa and north to Minnesota having less than two-thirds of last year's crop.

Pasture conditions in the state are now somewhat above average in nearly all sections. Conditions are fairly good in Pennsylvania. Wisconsin and Minnesota are also fairly good, but the other north central states have very poor pastures.

Potatoes, while growing moderately well, are showing signs of blight in many upstate fields. The Long Island crop, now being harvested, is turning out fairly well and with light crops in the competing states of New Jersey and Virginia, is finding a better market than last year The state crop is now forecast at 35,932,000 bushels compared with 46,620,000 last year, while the United States crop is now placed at 353,266,000 bushels compared with 454,784,000 bushels last year.

Beans, with an increased acreage over last year are developing blight and other diseases and the present forecast of 2,108,000 bushels compared with 1,820,000 bushels last year, is subject to considerable change before the end of the season. The United States crop shows increases in nearly all states, with a total of 17,454,000 bushels compared with 13,327,000 bushels last year

"THE OLD HOMESTEAD" AT THE MAVERICK.

The present tour of "The Old Homestead," with Henry Horton, formerly of Ellenville, as inimitable "Uncle Josh" the famous Denman Thompson role, is being greatly enjoyed by many a playgoer. "The Old Homestead" will be presented at the Maverick Theater, near Woodstock, on Saturday evening under the management of James Thatcher. The cast and scenic embellishment are promised to be of the same high order always provided.

In Joshua Whitcomb ("Uncle Josh"), played to the life by Henry Horton, is seen a perfect representative of the best and broadest type of humanity—a prosperous, warm-hearted, peace-loving, God-fearing Yankee farmer. And associated with him are found such delightful characters as Cy Prime, Seth Perkins, Happy Jack, Aunt Matilda, Eb Ganzey, Rickety Ann and others.

The production of "The Old Homestead" will follow with fidelity every detail of the original. The famous "Old Homestead Quartet" will be included in the presentation, rendering the songs of other days. The Grace Church choir, Salvation Army and Swanzey Band are still enjoyable features.

Prison Terms for Pickford Plotters

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 14.—Charles Z. Stevens and Claude A. Holcomb must serve from ten years to life in San Quentin prison for plotting the kidnapping of Mary Pickford, motion picture star.

Sentence will be passed tomorrow. They were convicted last night when a jury of nine men and three women found two of the three defendants in the abduction case guilty and freed Adrian J. Wood, scarcely past 21.

Stevens, Holcomb and Wood were arrested May 30, charged with a plot to kidnapp "America's sweetheart." At their trial their attorneys charged the arrests were a police "frame up" for publicity.

Quit Anthracite For Soft Coal

Reduction in Freight Rates on Bituminous Product May Help in Solution of Threatened Strike in Anthracite Fields.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 14.—The action of the interstate commerce commission in refusing to order a horizontal reduction in freight rates on anthracite coal, while at the same time ordering sharp reductions in the rates on low volatile West Virginia coal, is expected to make any strike in the anthracite fields of short duration, it was learned today.

While most householders in the eastern part of the United States, particularly in the New England states, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Maryland have for years been accustomed to burning anthracite coal. Federal and other investigators contend that low volatile bituminous coal is a suitable and satisfactory household fuel.

These investigators point out that there is an abundant supply of this type of coal in certain coal-burning lands of Pennsylvania, Maryland and West Virginia. A former Federal fuel distributor estimated that a large tonnage of low volatile coal of all kinds and sizes, produced from the fields of Pennsylvania and West Virginia, might be made available for use for household fuel in the Middle Atlantic States, and New England States, namely 1,742,500 tons every month, from the coal fields in the central district of Pennsylvania, 180,000 tons every month from the New River district of West Virginia, and 400,000 tons every month from the Pocohontas district of West Virginia.

While the preference of many inhabitants of the north eastern states is for anthracite, lower costs of low volatile bituminous and a threatened disruption in the production of anthracite, may cause anthracite to lose its charm with consumers.

Isn't Nature Wonderful?

Lucas Malet—"We are all, whether old or young, very actually the age morning declares us to be, and too often unflatteringly declares." But with the subsequent difference that, whereas the old grow younger as the day goes on, losing some of their staleness, the young grow older, losing some of their freshness.—Boston Transcript.

Ugly Forgiveness

There is an ugly kind of forgiveness in the world—a kind of hedgehog forgiveness, shot out like quills. Men take one who has offended and set him down before the blowpipe of their indignation, and scorch him, and burn his fault into him, and when they have kneaded him sufficiently with their fiery fists—they forgive him.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Republicans Name Mayor

look at—it affects us all, and it is the first matter I will look after if I am elected."

The demonstration for Judge Stephan at the close of his speech exceeded in enthusiasm either of the two preceding demonstrations.

Dempsey to Preside.

For alderman-at-large, Former Alderman Ralph Mann of the Seventh ward nominated Edgar J. Dempsey who is now alderman-at-large and preisdes over the common council.

"It is said that opportunity comes to every man once in a lifetime," said Mr. Mann, "and I am glad that the opportunity has come to me to present for your consideration a man we all respect, for whom we all have a feeling only of absolute confidence. It gives me great pleasure to present for your consideration the man who won before by a majority of over 1,400 and who I believe will win by a still bigger majority this year. The preceding speakers have said we must have every Republican vote, and I know we will get them not only for Judge Stephan and the candidate I am about to name but also for every other candidate on the Republican ticket. I offer for your approval for the designation for alderman-at-large, Edgar J. Dempsey of the Fourth Ward."

Mr. Mann's speech was received enthusiastically, and the demonstration was renewed after the secretary had been instructed to cast the unanimous ballot of the convention for Mr. Dempsey and he had been brought before the convention by Mr. Mann and Ward B. Everett.

Faith In His Ticket.

"I thank you very much for desiring me for this office and designating me for nomination," said Mr. Dempsey. "I hope I will be elected. With a man of the high character of Judge Stephan at the head of our ticket, I don't doubt but that the entire Republican city ticket will be elected, and the entire Republican county ticket as well."

There was another demonstration for Mr. Dempsey and his sentiments.

Shufeldt, Tried and True.

For judge of the city court, Charles H. Van Gasbeck of the Third ward nominated Augustus Shufeldt.

"For this office," said Mr. Van Gasbeck, "I wish to present a man who has been tried and not found wanting. He has served in that office as acting city judge and he served in a way that gave satisfaction. It gives me pleasure to nominate Augustus Shufeldt."

The enthusiasm displayed by the delegates was renewed and was continued after the secretary had cast the unanimous ballot for the convention for Mr. Shufeldt, on motion of Herbert E. Thomas of the First ward, and Mr. Shufeldt had been escorted before the convention by Mrs. Anna Hoey and Mr. Van Gasbeck.

Proud of Republican Spirit.

"I thank you deeply for this vote of esteem," said Mr. Shufeldt. "Some years ago I cast my first vote and it was for President of the United States—for the Republican President. Since that time I have had no regrets that I affiliated with the Republican party, and tonight I am proud of the Republican spirit when I see such a good man as Judge Stephan sacrificing personal inclination for public service and to see Edgar J. Dempsey receive the reward of work well done. With such men leading we can feel proud of our city and I am proud to be associated with them on the ticket. Again, I think you."

Mr. Shufeldt was given another hearty demonstration.

Committee to Fill Vacancies.

On motion of Herbert E. Thomas, the chairman appointed as a committee to fill vacancies, Charles H. Van Gasbeck, Mrs. Anna Hoey and Louis Kaplan.

Lawatsch Makes Suggestion.

Anthony H. Lawatsch, who had been a delegate to the county convention, said he would like to "make a resolution that it be put before the common council that the mayor ought to receive a salary."

"I have talked with a number of business men who say that this mayor job is a real business and ought to have a salary like any other business job," said Mr. Lawatsch. "So I make a resolution that we go before the common council for a salary for the mayor, like the aldermen get."

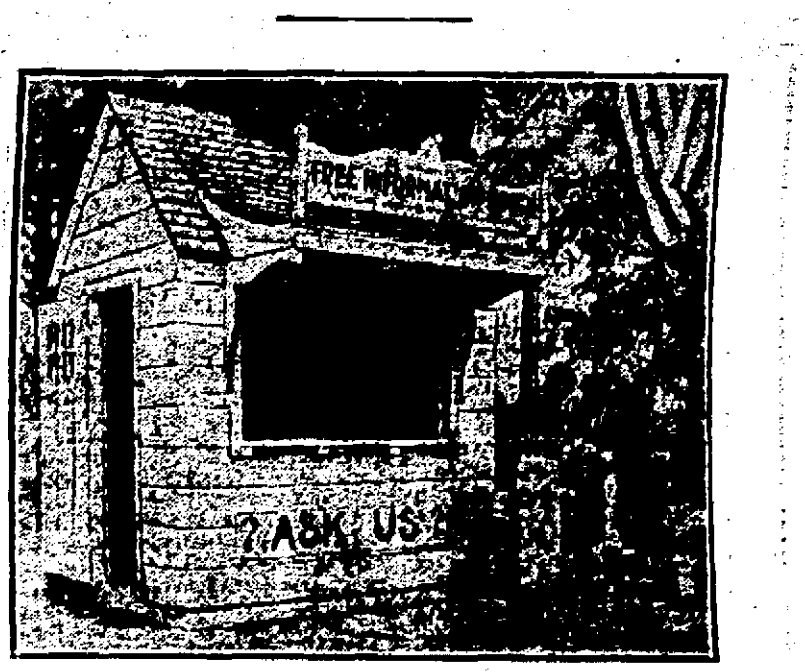
Stephan's Successor Could Have It.

Secretary Ebert explained to Mr. Lawatsch that it would be possible to pay a salary to the man who is elected as Judge Stephan's successor two years from now, but no salary could be paid to Judge Stephan because the law of the state of New York does not allow a salary to be created or increased for any man while he is holding an office to which he was elected by the people, and that a salary for the mayor could not be created until after Judge Stephan was in office and so the first mayor who could possibly receive a salary would be Judge Stephan's successor, elected two years from now.

The motion of Mr. Lawatsch was carried.

The convention then adjourned.

Utica Shows Tourists New Idea in Its Free Information Booths



"How far is it to Albany?" "What is the best route to the Thousand Islands?" "Are there any bad detours going into the Adirondacks?" "Could you p-l-e-a-s-e help me change this tire?"

Being at the heart of New York State where roads bring tourists from every direction, Uticans have become accustomed to these questions. The Ad Club decided that they ought to be answered. It raised the money to build two booths outside town on main highways. They are furnished with all sorts of printed material to answer inquiries. Two young men are on duty daily to render any other service desired.

Do the tourists like it? The best proof is that they are always trying to leave tips and are surprised to learn that it is all free. Incidentally, it has helped improve traffic conditions in Utica, by giving travelers necessary information before they entered the city.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 14.—Aggressive forward movements in prices of industrial, motor and railroad stocks took place today, principally as the result of the vigorous efforts of the professional bulls and bullish pools. Speculative attention was focused on a small number of the high paid industrial stocks. The railroad stocks gave a good account of themselves and the oil stocks were inclined to recover a part of their recent losses.

On the other hand a number of the railroad and industrial stocks failed to hold yesterday's high valuations and declined from one to three points.

Call money renewed for the week end at four per cent and time money was unchanged.

General Motors' extra cash dividend helped to draw attention not only to that stock, but also to Fisher Body and Du Pont, the latter advancing 11 points at the opening of the market and selling in huge volume.

About seven points higher. General Motors was active. White Motors jumped five points to above 98; Mack Trucks added six points more, International Telephone was up 7 at 145; Sears Roebuck up 5 and numerous well known industrial stocks like United States Steel and Baldwin up a point or more.

Southern Railway advanced 2 points to the highest price on record Frisco Common and other active rails were in good form, Norfolk and Western gaining 3 points, and Chicago Northwestern three, but Ontario and Western and a few of the low priced issues retraced their steps a point or two.

The oil stocks made a good showing Advances of a point or more were made in Pan American, Independent, Shell Union and Marland.

Copper and sugar stocks made a better showing. Rubber and tire were unable to gain, and accessory stocks were also irregular.

Auto Dealers Greet Sheldon

Second Dinner of Automobile Dealers With Noted Speaker—Sheldon Movement Progressing Also in Other Places.

Kingston automobile dealers along with their staffs held their second dinner last night at which A. F. Sheldon was the speaker. The object of these dinners is to bring the auto industry as locally represented in touch with the Forum of Fundamentals which Mr. Sheldon is now conducting for the Chamber of Commerce.

The whole evening was spent in explaining two of the laws related to the science of man power development. The speaker made plain the importance of these laws by showing the basic fact that in both industry and commerce man-power is cause while equipment, wise use of equipment, quality, quantity and economy of production and profits were effects flowing from this one cause. He related the history of one western manufacturer who, after years of effort, finally summed up the results of his experience by saying, "When once I learned to center all my efforts on the problem of the development and success of each individual in the business then the success of the business as a whole soon began to take care of itself." The success of any institution is but the combined success of the individuals in that institution.

The Forum of Fundamentals is progressing nicely in Orange county as well as in Kingston. In Orange county the Athenia Club held a meeting of some three hundred leading women of the county at the Moffat Library Washingtonville, on Thursday.

Mr. Sheldon addressed the meeting on the subject of "Natural Law." Among other things he said:

"The home is the center of civilization, and woman as a rule manages the home. As the homes of the nation, so eventually is the civilization of that nation. Woman's natural job is possibly the most important job in the whole category of human affairs. Life is a ledger—on one side are duties, obligations and responsibilities. On the other side are rights, privileges and prerogatives. This is a law of nature and applies to women the same as it does to men.

"Today throughout the world there is a mad scramble seemingly of everybody to get more rights, privileges and prerogatives. We should all have our eyes wide open to the fact that rights, privileges and prerogatives, whether or women or of men, are the natural effects flowing from the fulfillment of their natural duties, obligations and responsibilities.

"Nature plays no favorites in her operation of natural law. The ladies even are not excepted. Woman is taking a more and more important part in the affairs of the world. If, however, in her scramble for more and more rights, she perchance should neglect her natural duties, obligations and responsibilities, she will eventually be confronted with a loss of natural rights and privileges."

In the course of his remarks Mr. Sheldon quoted the late Thurston's tribute to woman which is as follows:

"Woman has always beautified the world for man. With rare tenderness and devotion she weaves her loveliest blossoms into his daily life. She hushes the weak protests of his lips at birth upon her holy breast and with her clinging lips seals on his lips the mystery of death. Woman first brought love to earth. She set to ringing the celestial melodies of human souls and that sweet music, dearest to every heart, has made of earth a heaven and of death a hope."

Mrs. Steel's Finger Fractured.

Mrs. Marion Steel, who owns a studio at Woodstock, is in the Kingston City Hospital with a fractured finger and an injured hand, the result of an accident on Thursday when she was on her way to Kingston and her car skidded into a ditch. She is under the care of Dr. Norwood.

Yacht-Club Dance Tonight.

Harp Loses Eminence

Tara's famous harp is disappearing and fast becoming but a memory. At the recent Feis Ceoil at Dublin, the festival to which Ireland's budding musicians come annually to submit themselves to tests set by eminent adjudicators—there was only one entrant for the harp competition and only one, also, in the competition for a song with harp accompaniment. It is explained that the harp is at a disadvantage as compared with the violin and other instruments of smaller bulk, since it is not easily portable for private entertainments, and being essentially an instrument of the individual, it can never hope to find a place as an item of household equipment as does the piano. But whatever the reason, the fact remains that the harp is becoming almost as extinct in Ireland as are the snakes banished by St. Patrick.

WHO SAID

"The multitude is always in the wrong."

WHEN Wentworth Dillon, fourth earl of Roscommon, uttered these words, he well knew and appreciated the limited ability of a multitude or mob to make an accurate judgment. He lived at the time Charles II was in power in England, and he saw the multitude first acclaim royalty, in the person of Charles' father, then denounce it and execute their king, to welcome the regime of Oliver Cromwell. And, finally, he saw the multitude turn again to royalty and outdo itself in an attempt to show their affection for the new monarch, Charles II.

Roscommon, as he is best known, was one of the favorites at the court of Charles II, where his learning and brilliant conversational powers won him many staunch friends among the nobles. It is a rather strange thing that this man who was such a friend of the king should at the same time have been described as "the only moral writer" during the reign of Charles.

The reign of this monarch was noted for the dissoluteness and licentiousness of those in control, and how it happened that a man of Roscommon's character, writing as he did, did not offend some of the dissolute courtiers, if not the king himself, is not known. The fact remains, however, that he continued in the good graces of the king and his court until death.

Roscommon is known as a minor poet. He has left little to accord him a high place among the writers of his land, and yet many of his sayings and bits of philosophy, such as that quoted above, have been handed down through the years. He was born in 1633 and died in 1685.

Little of the work of Roscommon has survived. His two best-known efforts, probably, are an "Essay on the Translation of Verse" and a "Translation of Horace's Art of Poetry."—Wayne R. McMurray.

Among the NOTABLES

LAFAYETTE

LAFAYETTE'S birthday should, and will rank in the hearts of Americans along with the birthdays of Washington and Lincoln. For we have owed a debt to Lafayette and France for our freedom, which we have never forgotten and which we are just beginning to repay. Pershing, at the tomb of this great Frenchman, said simply, "Lafayette, we are here" and expressed the feeling of all America.

Marie Joseph Paul Yves Roch Gilbert Du Motier, Marquis de Lafayette, was born in Auvergne, France, September 6, 1757. At thirteen he was left an orphan with a princely fortune; at sixteen he married a young girl from one of the country's most-noted families: at nineteen, he wanted to help America fight for freedom.

He came to America first with a few comrades, enlisted as a volunteer without pay, but was made a major general. He proved his value as a commander at once. He was obliged to return to France for six months, really as a champion of America at the court of Louis XVI. He returned, used his own money to provide for his men, and took a distinguished part all through our Revolution.

His history, after that, is almost the history of France. He worked for the liberty of his own country, but tried to stay the frenzy of the revolting people who threw French politics into such a chaotic state towards the end of the century. He even suffered five years' imprisonment, in spite of America's pleas for him. After alternate periods of political activity and of quiet, he died in Paris, in 1834.

Mother's Cook Book

Ah, what would the world be to us,
If the children were no more?
We should dread the desert behind us
Worse than the dark before.

HOT WEATHER DISHES

ON a warm day when hot dishes do not appeal to the palate, it is refreshing to serve some of the cooling jellied dishes.

Chicken is the favorite summer meat and may be prepared in many different ways to vary the sameness.

Chicken in Aspic.

Wash and clean a four-pound chicken and put in a kettle with two quarts of water (boiling); one sliced onion, one-half cupful of diced celery, or one-eighth teaspoonful of celery seed, a sprig or two of parsley, a bit of bay leaf, one small carrot diced, two teaspoonfuls of salt, and one-quarter of a teaspoonful of pepper. Cook slowly until very tender. Set away to cool; remove the chicken and skim off all the fat from the top of the liquor. Heat the liquor, adding two egg whites and shells to clarify, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-quarter teaspoonful of paprika, one-eighth teaspoonful of nutmeg and the juice of half a lemon. Add three tablespoonfuls of granulated gelatin which has been soaked in three-quarters of a cupful of cold water; stir until the gelatin is dissolved, then strain through a double cheesecloth. Mold as for any meat loaf, adding asparagus tips, cooked egg, canned pimentos or stuffed olives for color.

A quick aspic may be made with beef extract or bouillon cubes, one teaspoonful to each cup, or one cube.

Attractive jellies may be made of tomato juice. This is nice for fish mold.

Maryland Hors d'Oeuvre.

Spread rounds of buttered toast with minced mushrooms stewed in a little butter or cream. On this place a spoonful of diced chicken moistened with white sauce, and top with half a stuffed egg garnished with a whirl of mayonnaise. This makes a nice luncheon dish which may be extended to serve many.

YOUR Last Name

IS IT MILTON?

THE American Miltons have the satisfaction of believing that they are collateral descendants of John Milton, the immortal author of "Paradise Lost." At least such may be their claim if they are descended from the Milton family early established at Halifax, N. C.

The tradition is that the ancestor of these Miltons was Judge Christopher Milton, a brother of the poet. A descendant of his was John Milton, who was born in England and came to the United States in 1734, settling in North Carolina.

His son, John Milton, born in Halifax county, North Carolina, in 1740, was secretary of state of Georgia after the Revolution, and received two votes from the Georgia electors for first President of the United States. He married Hannah Spencer and by her had a son, Homer Virgil Milton, an officer in the War of 1812. He was known as General Milton.

General Milton had a son John Milton, born in 1807, who was governor of Florida. Governor Milton had a son, William Henry Milton, a distinguished jurist, and his son, William Hall, born in 1864, was a distinguished surveyor general.

CASE—There is an Anglo-Norman word "cas" or chance from which this name is probably derived.

Cat's-Eye Has Many Points of Beauty

The dictionary describes the cat's-eye as a "gem exhibiting opalescent reflections from within, like the eyes of a cat. Specifically a variety of chrysoberyl or a variety of quartz or chalcedony, inferior to this in brilliancy. It is cut en cabochon."

The distinguishing feature of the cat's-eye stone is the peculiar milky-white, bluish or greenish-white sheen which crosses and recrosses it with every play of the light as the gem is turned about. The explanation of this peculiarity is that the stone contains, packed in its depths, many closely-matted fibers of another strange mineral, familiar to us as asbestos. The thing that makes asbestos remarkable in the mineral world is that though it is rock, it does not crumble when crushed, but comes to pieces in the form of fibers. It is the streak of these fibers in the cat's-eye which causes it to reflect the light in its very lovely way, with every movement of the finger wearing it.

Of course, the beauty of the stone can also be greatly enhanced by the skill of the cutter. To say that the stone is cut "en cabochon" means that in this style of cutting the upper part of the stone is shaped like a low dome, and it brings out all the natural luster and color of opaque and translucent stones. Therefore, such stones as the garnet, turquoise, cat's-eye, etc., are usually cut in this way. The best cat's-eye comes from India and Ceylon.

Unfortunate Poet

Richard Lovelace, the poet whose fame rests on his beautiful lyrics, "To Althea From Prison" and "To Lucasta on Going to the Wars," spent many years in prison and died in poverty in London's slums.

Wise Junk Man

A rag and junk buyer is outstripping all his competitors by carrying a small camera with him. He exchanges one of those two-minute photographs for all the junk he can find and is doing a rushing business.

Dream Comes True

Albert Lord, an English magistrate, was dreaming that his office in London was being robbed. In the midst of his dream he was awakened by the telephone bell and informed that a burglar in his office had been caught.

Powerful Illumination

The greatest lighthouse in South America is that on the island of Rincon, about twenty miles south of Bahia Blanca. It has an illumination capacity of 20,000,000 candle power and may be seen for a distance of 36 miles.

Once Palace, Now Barracks

The palace in which the popes resided while at Avignon is now used as a French barracks. It is an enormous structure with battlement towers and lofty walls, and was built in the Fourteenth century.

Little Girl Deserted Here

Mabel Yetter, nine years of age, was found abandoned early this morning near 56 Henry street, by Officers Brophy and Relyea. When brought to the police headquarters she stated that her father left her there Thursday night while he had gone to get the light fixed on his Willys Knight car. Mabel waited for her father but he never returned, so having no place to go she walked the street all night until discovered by the policemen.

The little girl stated that her mother was dead and that she was from Cementon. Her father had been working at Cementon but had quit his job and they were on their way to Albany where he intended to work.

On the recommendation of Judge Fowler the little girl has been turned over to the county agent until the matter can be further investigated.

Phoenix Players' Final Play

Lovers of the drama in Kingston and throughout Ulster county view with regret the end of the season's program of the Phoenix Players this week. Their three plays, "The Importance of Being Earnest," "Foul Is Fair," and "The Mistress of the Inn," have constituted a delightful summer diversion for local people, and have been received with great enthusiasm. The last play particularly has been a masterpiece of dramatic production which would be well worth going all the way to New York to see.

Theater lovers who have not seen "The Mistress of the Inn" will still have three opportunities to see the Phoenix Players in this charming comedy. There will be a special performance tonight at 8:45 o'clock with Earoldine Humphreys in the leading role of "Mirandolina." Miss Humphreys will play at the matinee tomorrow (Saturday) afternoon at 2:45, and on Saturday evening Miss Rose Hobart will play the lead. Many humorous changes and additions have been made in the production of the play since the opening night, and several of the friends and subscribers of the Phoenix Players have indicated their desire to see the play again and pay the players a farewell visit at one of their last three performances.

NEW SIGNAL LIGHT FOR MOTORISTS

Employes of the board of public works are busy constructing a base for the new signal light which will be erected at the corner of Wall and North Front street. The present signal light which is suspended above the roadway has proved very unsatisfactory. Hornsby wafted out his thirty first home run with two on in the fifth but the Cubs raked Haines and Rhem from first to last and the Cardinals finished second, 8 to 5.

Much Money Is Spent by Yale for Rowing

Yale, whose varsity eight are Olympic champions, and who have had three years of success in dual and other regattas, has a high-priced staff of coaches headed by Ed Leader. The Blue also boasts a double plant for its oarsmen, one located on the Housatonic river, at Derby, Conn., and the Adee boathouse at New Haven. The expenses of running such a plant, salaries of coaches and traveling expenses included, totals, it is estimated, $40,000 a year.

SHIFT IN TACTICS WINS FOR PIRATES

When Sacrifice Was Logical Play Glenn Wright Hits Out Homer.

When the Giants were in Pittsburgh recently, the Pirates beat them in a ten-inning game in a manner which was such a change in tactics from what would have been pursued with the then subdued ball that it made veteran players wonder. 'Twas tactics revolutionary.

The Giants made two runs in the tenth and led 11 to 9. Nehf passed the first Pirate up in the eleventh and he scored on a hit by Barnhart. Traynor made an infield hit, putting men on first and second with none out.

One run was needed to tie, two to win, Wright was up. What would be the orthodox, natural and rational thing to do? To sacrifice, of course, and advance the tying run to third base and the winning run to second. Then a hit would win the game.

Wright never made an effort to bunt. No bunt was ordered. The way he sacrificed was to take a toe hold and drive the ball into the right field stand for a home run. Effective beyond the question of a doubt, beautifully elemental and effective, better than all the finesse in the world the way it worked out.

Even in these hit 'er out days of the lively ball it was a departure from tactics approved by the soundest baseball minds from time immemorial. Can it be that the ball this year is so virile that the slam-bang course gives percentage over science?

Flying Ebony No Good in 1924, Brilliant in 1925

After every great sporting event, things come out about the chief participants, that one would never hear of otherwise.

Flying Ebony, which won the Kentucky Derby this year, with Sande up, was one of seven horses bought by Gifford E. Cochran two years ago for a total of $181,000.

Six of these he bought by a pre-auction arrangement, out of a lot of yearlings that had been shipped from Kentucky by Edward F. Simms, and then, when the auction took place, he took a fancy to the jet-black colt by The Finn out of Princess Mary, and paid $21,000 for him.

The septette was trained last year by former jockey Schilling and hardly made their feed bill in purses. Then Coventry which was one of the seven started Cochran's lucky year by winning the Preakness. This shows the ups and downs of racing luck once more.

Catcher Tags Out Two

A rare play featured a game between Toledo and Columbus in the former city recently when two men were tagged out at the home plate almost simultaneously.

In the opening inning Murray of Columbus doubled and Johnson walked; Russell then doubled to right center and Nicholson quickly relayed the ball to Maguire and he fired it to Catcher Gaston, who tagged Murray as he slid and Johnson, who was coming in right on the former's heels, was also an easy out for the catcher.

Ancient Chest OR Modern Vault

Two hundred years ago only the very rich had any protection for their valuables. And these old chests were but poor protection.

Now, for less than a cent a day, anybody can keep valuables in our modern safe deposit vault. Steel, concrete and human vigilance make our vault as safe as humanly possible. It is convenient and economical. It makes your old tin box an expensive risk. It frees you from worry.
